HUDSON CONSTRUCTION GROUP

“As a luxury concierge builder, we are often involved in a project early in the process—frequently starting from the moment a client purchases a property.”

The secret to success? For Hudson Construction Group, it's continuous improvement. Managing partner Elliott Perry says, “We work hard to try to get better each and every day.” He adds: “That’s our greatest success. Knowing we can learn from each project to the next—and then continuously taking that knowledge into new projects—allows us to reach higher levels of success with our team, business partners and clients.” Hudson Construction Group was founded in 2015 with a focus on building in the Park Cities, Preston Hollow, Bluffview and the surrounding areas. “Each year, Hudson recruited the best project management associates and subcontracting partners to create a best-in-class construction company,” explains Perry. “We created and continue to engage in a culture that requires all parties to find success. With the client, subcontractors and supply partners, it’s win-win-win. As a result, we have had a steady and consistent rise.” Another factor in that rise is their unique project management system. Perry elaborates: “Many of our large-scale projects paved the way to show that Hudson’s unique approach is successful. Our proprietary system of internal protocols for managing costs, scheduling and quality control procedures results in some of the most amazing homes in town.”

ASK THE EXPERT

How should clients work with trade professionals to ensure a painless design process?

Sharing inspirational images, walking through other homes to discuss likes and dislikes and providing insights into house requirements are all great starting points. The more direct the communication is, the better.

How does your team stay on top of design trends?

Hudson doesn’t have in-house architects or designers. This allows us to partner with multiple architecture and design firms each year. The ability to work with numerous experts helps us to stay ahead of market trends.

What communities are you currently working in?

Bluffview, Devonshire, Greenway Parks, Highland Park, Northern Heights (the hidden area near the Katy Trail), Northern Hills, Preston Hollow and University Park.
